Concord On Laws Expected

BOISE (AP)—A conference committee of the Idaho Legislature worked throughout the morning today without reaching final agreement on a compromise way of amending election laws.

But legislative leaders said agreement seemed likely during the afternoon with indications the third special session on reappointment could be concluded by nightfall.

Reports said that with the drafting nearly complete, the compromise called for popular election of legislative district party chairmen, but with nomination by party precinct committees.

Without some restriction on nominations, opponents of the popular election principle said, it would be possible for a member of one party to file on the ticket of the other — and win the party's district chairmanship.

There was considerable sentiment among legislators to accept whatever version of the bill came out of the Conference Committee. The changes affecting conduct of political parties assemblies do not become effective until after this year's conventions in June.

Thus no matter what the current session does, the law could be changed by the 1967 Legislature prior to the 1968 assemblies.

The session was in its 11th day.

"The jury is still out and sitting," said Sen. Jack Murphy, R-Lincoln, president pro-tem, referring to conference committee of nine members — five from the Senate and four from the House.

Leaders said the conference committee's report would be submitted to party caucuses before going to the floor for consideration.

The election law revision is necessary for reappointment of the state to a legislature of 35 senators and 70 representatives.

Smylie Hasn't Decided to Call on Court

BOISE (AP) — Gov. Robert E. Smylie said today he has not decided when he will ask U.S. District Court to rule on the legality of the new Idaho legislative apportionment law.

Smylie said the bill has not reached him. The measure creates a legislature of 35 senators and 70 representatives. Legislative action on it was completed Saturday.

Smylie said as soon as he gets the bill he would move quickly on a request that the federal court remove an injunction covering this year's elections.

The injunction says Idaho must elect legislators at large until the legislature is constitutionally apportioned. Smylie said he thought Idaho's new law met U.S. Supreme Court standards of one man-one vote.

Smylie declined comment on whether the bill could be struck down on grounds it violates an Idaho constitutional ban of dividing counties to form legislative districts.

Charge Is Dropped in Traffic Death

A charge of involuntary manslaughter against Marvin J. Durrant was dropped Friday in Probate Court after four days of deliberation on the part of Judge Zoe Ann Shaub.

Durrant, 41, 1105 Blue Lakes Blvd., had been charged with involuntary manslaughter in an Oct. 18, 1965, pedestrian-auto accident which resulted in the death of Carl Lee Nelson, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Nelson, 483 Fillmore St.

In dropping the charge, Judge Shaub said the evidence at the preliminary hearing did not show that a crime had been committed or that there was probable cause to believe that the defendant had committed a crime. She then signed the decree freeing Durrant.

At the time of the accident Durrant told officers he did not see the boy until the moment of impact and was not sure what he had struck until he stopped and went back to investigate. Criminal charges against Durrant were not filed until some time after the accident.

Judge Shaub said it is regrettable that the family of the Nelson boy had been subjected to the tragedy, but she could find no cause to bind Durrant over to District Court.

Standby Tax Hike Is Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate-House Economic Committee has proposed that Congress enact a standby tax increase but finds the experts divided on whether the boost should actually be put into effect. Four noted economists split, two against two, in testimony Wednesday on whether taxes should be raised at once to fight inflation. Three of them emphasized that despite some over-heating the price pot is not yet boiling. The witnesses disagreed also on some details of what taxes should be changed, how, and by how much. But all said an income tax rise should be included, and all held that the spade work should be done now for an anti-inflation tax law which might never be used.

The hearings continue today. While a subcommittee headed by Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., received testimony Wednesday, the full committee issued its formal report evaluating the President's annual economic message to Congress.

The Democratic majority — whose findings were disputed almost all the way down the line by the Republican committee members — recommended that:

1. A standby tax program "should be designed and enacted immediately with a provision that it should come into effect whenever Congress passes, and the President signs, a joint resolution bringing it into operation."

By the joint resolution technique it would be possible to write new tax rates into law in a single day, lawmakers said, instead of the two or more months normally needed.

2. The 7 per cent tax credit for business investment in new equipment and machinery should be suspended immediately. Enacted in 1962 to encourage plant modernization, the device has encouraged record-shattering industrial outlays.

3. The extraordinary exuberance, indicated by investment programs "is one of the major inflationary threats of this year," the committee said.

4. The costs of the military buildup for Viet Nam should thus be covered by raising tax revenues instead of curtailing federal outlays for civilian programs.

The committee thus went even beyond President Johnson's request in his economic message that Congress prepare basic tax studies to "permit quick decisions and prompt action to raise or lower taxes as a counter to either inflation or recession."

Dismissed

MURTAUGH—Classes at Murtaugh schools were dismissed about 8:30 a.m. Thursday because of the high rate of absenteeism.

Administrators said school will resume Monday. Flu was blamed for the many students who were absent in both the junior and senior high schools.

BERLIN (AP) — A young American just released from an East German jail said today he was caught trying to help an East Berlin family escape to West Berlin and he would try to do it again if he had it to do over. John Van Alena, 22, Milton Junction, Wis., was released from a prison in Communist East Berlin Wednesday. He was brought to West Berlin by a New York attorney, Maxwell R. Rabb, who had taken an interest in the case.

American Just Released From East German Jail Has No Remorse for Act

Van Alena was released after serving 17 months of an 8-year sentence for what the East Germans call aiding refugee flight.

He told a news conference he had been in five prisons, was given no work and for the "first 12 months I was alone in a cell big enough for two men."

He was allowed 20 minutes of exercise "a day in what he described 'as a sort of cage.'"

Van Alena, down 10 pounds from his normal weight of 165 pounds, was pale, his hands

Planning Funds for Museum Are Advised

The Twin Falls School District trustees met in special session Thursday with representatives of the Herrett Arts and Science Center and the State Department of Education to map a course of action to apply for large federal non-matching grants to expand the Herrett center.

Richard Kay, state adviser for science and mathematics, and William Grange, spokesman for the science center's informally constituted board of trustees, met with the school board following an earlier breakfast meeting.

Kay earlier had recommended the Herrett trustees meet with the school board to work out a way to garner the large planning and operational grants available now and in the near future.

During the second meeting, the school trustees took no formal action. However, the trustees obviously were interested in making application for a planning grant to precede any wholesale expansion of the center.

Kay suggested a $30,000 planning grant would be adequate to make plans for the development of the center, to include preliminary architectural studies.

He noted a similar planning grant has been awarded to the Coeur d'Alene school district for $32,000 to plan a similar area. See MUSEUM, pg. 2, col. 4

Tight Security Imposed for Kennedy Visit

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Worried University of Mississippi officials imposed tight security on this tree-studded campus today on the eve of an appearance by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

The senator, who played a major role in ending the university's century-old segregation policy, will address the law school student body Friday afternoon.

The appearance of the late president's brother has provoked some criticism in Mississippi. A "rebel flag day" protest rally is set for tonight in Jackson, the state capital 180 miles to the south.

Kennedy's only purpose in coming to Mississippi "is to rub salt into the wound," said Rep. Prentiss Walker, this state's lone Republican congressman.

Some state officials called for a display of Southern hospitality.

Ole Miss officials said outsiders would not be permitted on the campus during the Kennedy appearance. First priority for seats in the 1,400-seat chapel went to law students and faculty. About 600 remaining tickets were gobbled up quickly Wednesday by other students.

Many students stood in line without ever getting tickets. University officials would not release the Kennedy timetable.

Recording Reveals Trying Experience Of Two Astronauts

CAPE KENNEY, Fla. (AP)—The Gemini 8 astronauts were riding a violently tumbling spacecraft during a hair-raising 30 minutes in space Wednesday, tape-recorded conversations with the astronauts revealed today. "We have serious problems here. We're tumbling end over end," command pilot Neil Armstrong told a tracking ship as he emerged from a communications blackout over the Western Pacific Ocean. "It's rolling, and we can't turn anything off," Armstrong called down from space.

Families Are Disappointed But Relieved

CAPE KENNEY, Fla. (AP) — Those who most love astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott are a disappointed—but very much relieved—group of relatives today. After their icy-nerved husbands dropped safely to earth, Ann Scott and Janet Armstrong showed by their smiles they are happy their men are safe. But both said they were "very disappointed" the flight ended early.

In La Jolla, Calif., Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Tom W. Scott, parents of the Gemini 8 pilot, said they also were disappointed. The general conceded that it was "a great relief" when the splash-down occurred safely, however.

At Cape Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen K. Armstrong, Neil's parents, declined to speak directly with newsmen until they talk first with their son.

A spokesman said the Armstrongs were concerned during the tension-filled period leading up to re-entry "just like any parents would be, but certain everything would be all right."

The Armstrongs watched the launch at Cape Kennedy, a mile away from the Gemini-Titan 2 pad. They came to Florida from their home town of Wapakoneta, Ohio, where Neil was born and raised.

After the failure occurred 185 miles above the earth, Armstrong's wife, Janet, went to the Scott home in the Massachusetts Bay subdivision near the Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston. The two wives spent most of the time in a bedroom watching television and kept in constant communication with Mission Control.

"I'm very disappointed but happy it turned out safely for both," said Mrs. Armstrong after the vigil. Scott's wife added, however, that she was pleased "the primary purpose of the mission was accomplished."

She was referring to the successful linking up of the Gemini 8 spacecraft and its Agena target—a "first" in the history of space flight.

Thirteen-year-old Timothy Williams remained in critical condition Thursday morning after a home-made rocket manufactured from a ballpoint pen and fueled by gunpowder pierced his heart and lodged in his pulmonary artery Tuesday.

The spent projectile was surgically removed four hours after the freakish accident. Seven pints of blood were used during the delicate operation, and an additional two pints had been used since the completion of surgery.

According to doctors, although the bleeding has been halted and the boy is "holding his own," his condition still is critical.

Boy, 13, Still Critical After Pen Mishap

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — Another Republican has entered the race for Democratic U. S. Rep. Compton I. White's job.

Robert B. Purcell of Lewiston announced his bid Wednesday as a Republican congressional candidate in Idaho's First District.

The other announced candidate is state Sen. James McClure of Payette. White, of Clark Fork, has declared he will seek a third term.

Purcell, manager of the Lewiston Chamber of Commerce, described himself Wednesday as "a practical conservative who has been and will continue to be progressive."

Before moving to Lewiston, Purcell served as manager of the Caldwell Chamber of Commerce for about five years. He is a native of Idaho and a graduate of the College of Idaho.

Irish demolition troops this week finished off the 50-foot pedestal that remained.

Today's festivities got under way early and quietly with an industrial parade through the city center.

St. Patrick's Day in Dublin is a quiet affair compared with the "blow out" in New York. Until recently the only place a Dubliner could get a drink on St. Pat's was at the Ballsbridge Dog Show.

The festive day dawned with church bells calling all Irishmen to religious services. There was a special service at the Church of Ireland's Anglican Cathedral at Downpatrick, County Down, where some believe St. Patrick is buried.

The annual parade in Dublin is a commercial affair with advertising floats and pretty girls. The statue to Britain's most famous admiral was erected by British public subscription in 1809 to commemorate Lord Nelson's victory over the French at Trafalgar. To Irish nationalists it was a symbol of British oppression.

Extremists also recently hurled fire bombs at Dublin's British Legion (veterans) Club and set fire to the home of the British military attaché.

The outlawed Irish Republican Army has denied responsibility for the terrorism, which is attributed to a far-out extremist group. Its name is not generally known.

Tense Calm Settling in Watts Area

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A tense but hopeful calm settled on riot-torn Watts today as the mostly Negro community emerged from a nightmare that briefly resembled last summer's deadly rampage.

City, county and state officials moved in rapidly, trying to assess the damage and find the causes of rioting that broke out Tuesday afternoon, leaving 26 men dead, 26 persons injured and 49 arrested.

The riot area—in south-central Los Angeles—was still under rigid police control, with the main street blocked to all but commercial traffic. Attendance at Jordan High School was only about 50 per cent of normal, said the principal, Dr. William J. Settle.

Both were reportedly to have come safely through the dangerous re-entry which abruptly terminated their scheduled three-day flight just 10 hours, 42 minutes after the blastoff.

At a morning news conference at Houston, Flight Director Gene Kranz said it will be some time before officials can say what caused Gemini to buck in space, knocking the astronauts out of their seats.

The trouble which sent the spacecraft into a hair-raising spin happened when there was no voice or telemetry communication between earth and the spacecraft. The cause will not be known, Kranz said, until after an extensive review of flight data.

The astronauts were given a preliminary one-hour physical examination soon after boarding. Mason and were reported in good condition.

He was scheduled to return later today to a White House meeting with Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and other top policy advisers.

Johnson was reported considering sending a new letter to French President Charles de Gaulle on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization crisis.

Rep. Edna F. Kelly, D-N.Y., chairman of the House subcommittee, told reporters Bohlen discussed the NATO situation in general at the closed session, starting a series of hearings on NATO and U.S. relations.

The over-all situation and this country's next moves are being considered at the White House meetings.

Quake Is Felt In Parts of Utah, Idaho

By The Associated Press

A light earthquake rocked northern Utah and southern Idaho early today, bringing many telephone calls to police authorities but causing no apparent damage.

The tremor apparently centered in the Cache Valley area in northern Utah and southern Idaho where it was reported at 4:47 a.m. Many residents said the tremor awoke them.

There were many reports of its being felt in Ogden, and a number of persons in the Salt Lake City area also felt it.

Dr. J. Stewart Williams, head of the Geology Department at Utah State University said the school's seismograph indicated the tremor lasted four minutes. He said "There was nothing significant about the magnitude of the quake recorded on the seismograph. But judging by what Logan residents felt, it was about intensity one. Intensities of six or seven are damaging."

Several weeks ago a tremor felt and heard in the same general area proved to be caused by the testing of a big rocket engine by the Thiokol Chemical Corp. west of Tremonton. Thiokol officials said there were no rocket tests at the time of today's tremor.

REJECTS REQUEST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Education subcommittee flatly rejected today President Johnson's request for a further increase in funds for a college student loan program.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — A parade celebrating St. Patrick's Day streamed along Dublin's famous O'Connell Street today, and all eyes turned to the spot where Nelson's pillar once stood.

The 134-foot monument to Britain's most famous admiral was blown up in the early hours of March 8. The explosion was believed to be the work of the English-hating outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Irish demolition troops this week finished off the 50-foot pedestal that remained.

"It's rolling, and we can't turn anything off," Armstrong called down from space.

Minutes later, Armstrong said he had switched to an emergency control system because he was unable to do anything with his main engines.

Shortly thereafter Armstrong reported the Gemini 8 spacecraft was starting to stabilize. He followed this with: "Relax. Everything's okay."

Mission Control Center in Houston, Tex., evaluated the situation quickly and told Armstrong and his space partner, David Scott, to prepare for an emergency re-entry.

The trouble occurred seven hours into the flight at about 6:40 p.m. EST. They splashed to a landing in the Western Pacific 500 miles east of Okinawa at 10:23 p.m.

They were picked up by the destroyer Leonard F. Mason early this morning and were due to dock at Naha, Okinawa, at 6 p.m. EST. They will fly Friday to Cape Kennedy.

Plane Lands Safely After Hitting Duck

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A jetliner with 60 passengers landed safely here Wednesday after a collision with a duck tore a 12-inch hole in a wing.

The Delta Air Lines DC9, on a flight from St. Louis to Memphis, landed without incident despite the flurry of fire engines and rescue vehicles waiting at the runway.

Delta officials said the twin-engine jet was at 3,000 feet when it flew into a small flock of ducks.

Capt. David Thayer of Chicago, the pilot, said the jet was "coming down when I heard a thud and felt her shudder a little bit."

"I knew we had hit a bird," Thayer said, "but I didn't know where. But I knew everything was all right when we came on down. I'd declared no emergency and I was a little surprised to see the fire trucks."

The bird smashed into the front of the plane's right wing, midway between the tip and the fuselage. "We sent the fire trucks out as a precautionary matter, which is usual."

A Federal Aviation Agency supervisor in Kansas City said the jet struck the bird during takeoff from St. Louis, but that it was not reported until the plane had reached cruising altitude.

"The only reason we learned of it then was the pilot requested permission to reduce air speed to compensate for a damaged wing," the supervisor said.

TV Networks

Get Protests On Programs

NEW YORK (AP) — The three national television networks were deluged Wednesday night with telephone calls from persons protesting the cancellation of entertainment shows for news of the emergency Gemini splash-down.

The National Broadcasting Co., which pulled "The Virginian" and "The Bob Hope Show" off the air, said today it received more than 3,000 calls of protest, and a spokesman could not recall a single compliment.

The Columbia Broadcasting System said many callers asked what had happened to "Lost in Space," a science fiction show. A spokesman for the American Broadcasting Co. said more than 1,000 calls protested three interruptions in the program "Babes," a comic adventure series.

The spokesman said the calls came from as far as Detroit. ABC stations around the country also received telephoned protests, he said, but no estimate of the total was available.

Most of the calls appeared to be from adults. Many protested in their own behalf; some said their children were angry.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, March 17—Born today, you have a good head for business and real respect for the value of the dollar. You know both how to make money and how to save it; what you may need to learn, however, is how to spend it wisely for what you need, and pleasantly for the enjoyment of yourself and those dear to you. Avoid earning a reputation for being close-handed, for such a reputation can do you more harm than the lessening of your bank account. At the same time, avoid going to the opposite extreme; as usual, the middle course is best.

Quite out of keeping with one so calm and cool in business affairs is your high emotionalism when faced with personal matters. When your personal life is the issue, you easily lose your temper if crossed and speak without thinking, or strike out at the nearest thing—or person—available. Of course, those who know you and admire you for your other qualities, easily forgive you for any hurts you may inflict at such times, but those who do not know you well are likely to give you a wide berth forever after.

Gifted with more than your share of both mental and physical energy, you are, like many so gifted, somewhat inclined to think of yourself as absolutely tireless. This, of course, is not true, and you must take care to get the rest you need if you are to accomplish what you might.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph; let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Basic Faults

The recently-formed Twin Falls City Highway Commission has started work and may come up with many recommendations to improve traffic and traffic conditions in Twin Falls. The first word from the commission was to eliminate on-street parking on Addison Avenue West. The street has had a high rate of rear-end and sideswipe type of accidents, apparently attributed to the narrow median dividing traffic. There's another factor that shouldn't be ignored.

For months, business people on Addison Avenue West have been complaining about the nature of traffic along the thoroughfare. In addition to the normal flow of traffic, Twin Falls has an unnatural volume of traffic resulting from the practice known as "dragging Main." Youngsters given to this sort of entertainment have developed a merry-go-round flow of traffic that goes down Main Avenue, out on Addison Avenue West, back to Five Points West, down Second Avenue West and South and back to Main again.

So long as those involved in this process of driving for the sake of driving obey traffic laws, no one should be unduly concerned. But persons in business along Addison Avenue West have indicated quite strongly that the practice involves a certain amount of racing and horsing around that would constitute disturbing the peace by auto. Authorities should have ended that sort of thing long ago. It was strange that the new Highway Commission took no note of the practice, although members may have been told to ignore such things in their work.

Some other basic faults they shouldn't ignore include the lack of synchronization of traffic lights and such unnecessarily rough spots in streets as the intersection of Shoshone Street and the Sixth Avenue. These are basic faults that should be corrected or eliminated automatically by those charged with maintaining streets or facilitating the flow of traffic.

For months, the traffic lights on Shoshone Street at Fourth Avenue and Sixth Avenue were adjusted so that Shoshone Street traffic invariably had to halt at both intersections. A similar condition has existed for some time now with the traffic lights on Main Avenue at the Roger-Hoban intersection. Nearly all traffic has to stop at both intersections. The purpose of traffic lights is to facilitate the flow of traffic, not stop it.

Perhaps these are little things that are more annoying than anything else. Yet it would be a rare person indeed who would not notice rough, washboarded streets or traffic lights that were adjusted in such a way as to halt the bulk of traffic. Perhaps the Highway Commission might even notice.

JUST ONE TRIAL

Certain segments of law enforcement and the nation's courts have been outspoken in their criticism of the press in recent years. They have coined the expression, "trial by newspaper," contending that no accused person can have a fair and impartial trial following news stories that go any farther than merely outlining a charge. A case in point is the recent Miami trial of Candace Mossler and Melvin Powers on charges of murdering Mrs. Mossler's millionaire husband. Because of the Miami setting and the sensational nature of the case, every facet and detail were developed and explored to the point of exhaustion. Those who deplore "trial by newspaper" had a lurid example. Yet Mrs. Mossler and Powers were acquitted.

The one case certainly can't be considered as blanket evidence there is no such thing as "trial by newspaper" but it is an indication that fair and impartial trials are possible in spite of all the newspaper publicity. Even though some segments of the nation's press examine a case minutely, there is only one trial—in the courtroom.

There's no doubt that undue publicity in a case can make the mechanics of a trial more difficult, but the fairness factor isn't impossible. There's still a sneaking suspicion that fair trials hinge more on such things as proper investigative procedures, full preparation of a case and good work on the part of both prosecutors and defense attorneys. It also helps to have a fair and impartial judge with a good knowledge of the law. These factors are far more important to a proper and fair trial than whether a newspaper devoted undue space to the more lurid details of a rather sensational case. Whether the principals want to admit it or not, many trials are prejudiced by faults or shortcomings in one or more of the basic essentials to fairness and justice. The public still has a right to know the news.

WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON—Today is St. Patrick's Day and the time has come for Irishmen like me and President Johnson and Charley de Gaulle to turn from trivial matters like NATO and the high cost of pork chops and contemplate our shining heritage.

It is not the desire here to belabor the citizenry with the oft-told tales of such distinguished Irishmen as Patrick Christopher O'Connell or Shamus O'Gallagher. Nor shall I note, except in modest passing, that for political reasons both George Washington and Einstein were scared to use their right name—to wit, Tully. Instead, I shall dispose of a canard currently fashionable among misguided anthropologists.

MIXED UP, MAYBE BUT NOT MIXED—That is the claim, first put forward by a frivolous pedagogue at the University of Pennsylvania, that the Irish are not, in fact, unique but actually are a mixture of English, Celtic, northern European and Mediterranean tribes. Scholars who would give their right arm to be Irish have seized upon this libel gleefully, to the everlasting shame of higher education.

These poor fellows obviously know nothing about Irishmen. If they did, they'd realize that an Irishman would not permit himself to be part English. He'd forbid it.

The Scottish part is a different matter. Irishmen don't mind that a little Scottish blood seeped into their otherwise pristine strain in history's early morning, because the Scots are really Irishmen who happen to live in Scotland. (The Irish, incidentally, sent the bagpipes over to Scotland as a gag, and the Scots took it seriously.) Like the Irish, however, the Scots have been fighting the Sassenach for centuries, and only joined up with the English so it would be more convenient to sell them gold bricks.

TRUE TO TYPE—Men of intelligence also will reject the claim that the Irish are part Mediterranean stock. I have great respect and admiration for those Latin and Oriental types who are great at singing operatic arias and selling rums, but they're just not the Irish type. I'm sorry for them, but it's their own fault for having been born in the wrong, or non-Irish part of the world.

Anthropologists who cut too many courses back at Coldore U. continually mouth the slander that the Irish have the biggest heads in Europe, and that their noses tend to be substantial. What I have to say to that is laugh! The Irish have handsome, medium-sized heads, beautifully formed and with high, intelligent foreheads. Their noses can be described only as classic. Some of them may not look it, but Irishmen are actually six feet tall, with wasp waists and bulging biceps.

SAVED CIVILIZATION—Aside from their pulchritude and brain power, Irishmen also should be admired for preserving Anglo-Saxon civilization. It was not happenstance that Ireland was the only country Julius Caesar could not conquer, and history records that it was the Irish who won our War of the Revolution. At the time, the Irish outnumbered every other nationality in the country, and the proportion of Irish in the Continental Army ranged from 38 to 50 per cent. No wonder the Limeys threw in the sponge.

Today's Americans are reminded of the Irishness of their nation every time they pass a stately mansion on Pennsylvania Avenue. The White House was designed by an architect named James Hoban—Irish, if course.

Views of Others

POWER BUT NOT WILL

The House of Representatives, which has become pretty much the rubber stamp of the Lyndon Johnson administration, shoved through the President's tax package, with both good and questionable figures, in jig time.

The Senate, which did not experience the coal-tail surge of the Johnson landslide in 1964, ought to take a little more care. Although urging this $6 billion tax bundle as essential to financing the war in Viet Nam, the President has offered almost nothing in the line of economy to compensate the antipoverty and all other Great Society programs, with their built-in escalation of costs, are also demanded of Congress by the President.

The House had its doubts, as was demonstrated by the close vote, 207 to 187, against separating from the package the restoration of excise taxes on automobiles and telephones. But once the bid for a compensatory saving in domestic programs was lost, the whole packet sailed through by vote of 246 to 146.

The speed-up tax collection features of the legislation—particularly, establishing realistic withholding of individual income taxes by means of a graduated payroll withholding schedule—should not cause a senatorial boggle. But it is another thing for the Congress to repudiate so soon the excise tax reductions it voted last year and which took so many years to obtain.

The President is not on sound ground in demanding new taxes for wether war expenses or to curb inflation so long as he is unwilling to cut back domestic spending which drains the war money away and stimulates inflation. But Congress holds the purse strings. It can establish spending and tax policies if it has the will to set the President straight.—The Oregonian.

SMALL BEER

In Ohio, two associations representing "carry-out" stores, which primarily sell beer and wine, long were nettled by grocery chains and supermarkets that were selling beer at low prices or even as a "loss leader."

Rather than countering this competitive challenge by offering price cuts, wider variety, better service or any of the other bounties that in a free economy result in an advantage to the consumer, the carryouts opted for an odd form of price control. They somehow prevailed upon state authorities to require all beer retailers to mark up prices at least 22 per cent over wholesale. Recently the measure went into effect and the supermarkets raised their prices to around the carryouts' level.

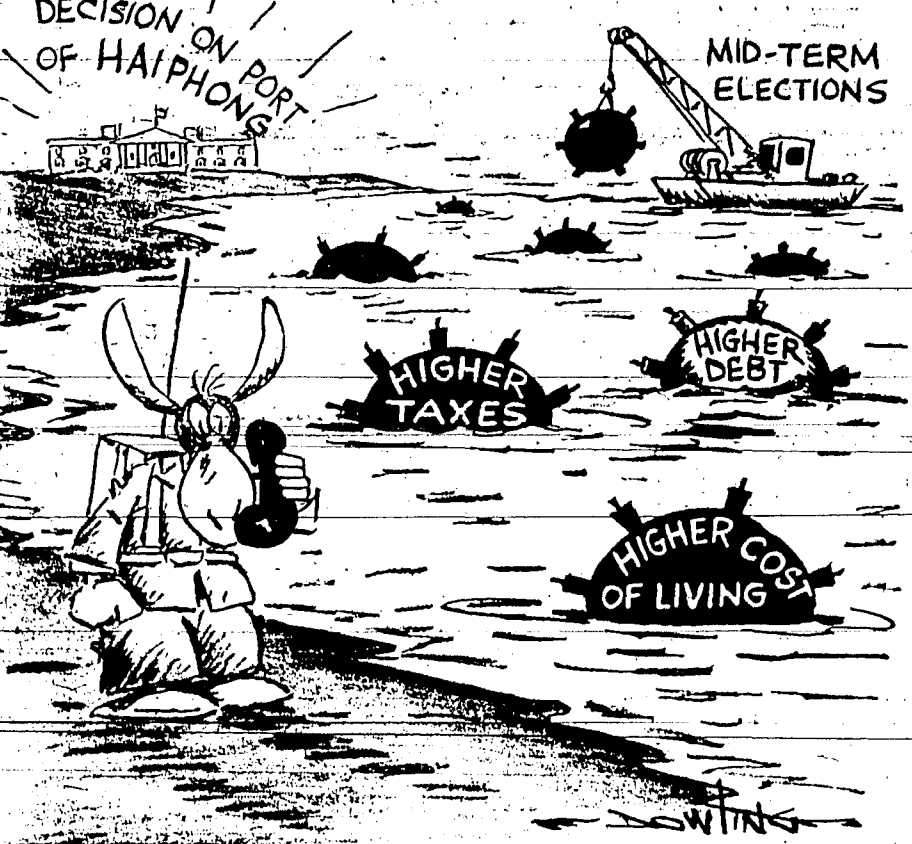

Whether the bestomers who must now pay more for their beer will reward the carryouts with a lot of extra business is at least questionable. For one thing, the supermarkets aren't exactly standing still. After all, as a representative of one said, "What else do we sell that has a 22 per cent markup?" So they are setting out to sell beer with a vengeance and some are already considering new merchandising tactics and added refrigeration units. While their share of the market has been only about 12 per cent, it could well increase under the new controls.

In other words, it's entirely possible that a scheme that was supposed to yield a life of beer and skittles may result instead in mud in the eye.—Wall Street Journal.

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

Q. Doctors have diagnosed my wife as having fibrocystic disease of the breast, recurrent carcinoma of the breast and metastases. Are any of these related to cancer? Could cobalt treatments result in cancer?

A. Fibrocystic mastitis is an inflammation of the breast which is not malignant but should be watched because it may become cancerous. Carcinoma is one type of breast cancer and "recurrent" implies a return of the cancer in an area where it has been removed. Metastasis is the process of spreading to another part of the body, often far removed from the original site. This is the characteristic that makes cancer so vicious and so hard to cure. A breast cancer may metastasize to the spine and other bones. Since cobalt treatments are given in an effort to kill cancer, they cannot be said to have caused it.

Q. What treatment do you recommend for a man whose breasts are much larger than average for a male?

A. All persons have both male and female hormones in their blood, but in men the male hormones predominate and in women the female. Enlargement of the breasts in men may occur at puberty, but this is associated with an increase in the pituitary hormone rather than the female hormone. In most young men this enlargement subsides in about two years. It may persist, or at least be more noticeable, in men who are obese.

If the condition first occurs after puberty or persists after a man reaches age 21, a tumor in one of the hormone-producing glands should be suspected. If such a tumor is found, it should be promptly removed. Treatment with hormone antagonists and other drugs has been disappointing. The only other treatment is plastic surgery.

TAYLOR'S VIEWS ON WORLD NEWS

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

WASHINGTON—Messages promising pie in the international sky go up on schedule from the White House, leaving a great trail of red-hot rhetoric behind them. What follows is a far less spectacular.

Just five years ago President Kennedy launched the Alliance for Progress, a program with noble words calling for progress among free governments working "to eliminate tyrant, Henry J. Taylor from a hemisphere in which it has no rightful place." The President spoke of the degradation of hunger and poverty in the Americas, the lack of education, jobs, shelter, the widespread prevalence of disease. And each day, he said, the problem grows more urgent.

Each day since that brave pronouncement it has gone on being more urgent, with the thin fabric of political order constantly threatened by breakdown and banditry carrying overtones of Communist subversion and military dictatorship. The promises set for the Alliance for Progress are soon, at the halfway mark of the decade that Kennedy set for its fulfillment, to be far short of the mark. Disillusion and doubt have in many countries replaced the first flush of hope.

But when this is said, it must be added that the gains are undeniable. They are evident above all in a greater realism in the approach to the underdeveloped land to the south of the North American border. It has been a made unmistakably clear that 10 years is far too short a time to achieve the goals of the alliance. The 10-year tag has, therefore, been quietly taken off.

forced the separation of church and state, and extended the guarantees of freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures, the privilege against self-incrimination, the right to counsel. The Marshall court had established the right of the court to review any act of Congress or of state courts, the right of Congress to regulate interstate commerce. In short, it made the central government iron-clad.

This enabled it to thrive and grow in strength. Without the Marshall court the American experiment might have ended in chaos. Without the Warren court the United States could hardly be the non-Communist world's leader, for if segregation remained it would have made a farce of American talk of freedom.

The Warren court has ended everything? Word comes from Hollywood that some zany there are having "come as your favorite disease" parties.

Worth remembering: "The one thing worse than a quitter is the man who is afraid to begin." Folklore: Fishing improves when the dogwood blossoms. If it rains on Monday, it'll rain at least three days. If a girl goes through the woods picks up a crooked stick, she will later marry a worthless man. A young girl overly fond of cats will wind up as an old maid.

8 Space Flights Have Major Problems

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Eight of America's 12 manned space flights have run into major problems. But the courage, skill and training of astronauts have prevented any disasters.

When Gemini 8 began to spin violently Wednesday, command pilot Neil A. Armstrong, a civilian, made a last-ditch decision to use his only remaining system of maneuvering jets to bring it under control. If he had exhausted the fuel in the system, his life and the life of pilot David R. Scott, an Air Force major, could have been jeopardized as they returned to earth.

In 1961, before any American achieved orbit, Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom had to swim for his life when the hatch blew on his spacecraft at sea after it landed.

In 1962, Navy Cmdr. M. Scott Carpenter was forced to steer by the horizon when a short circuit cut off the device that told him which way his Aurora-7 was pointing.

Just last August, Air Force Col. L. Gordon Cooper and Navy Lt. Cmr. Charles Conrad Jr. nursed Gemini 5 through 120 revolutions after it looked like a fuel pressure problem might force them down after six. If it had been unmanned, space officials said, it would never have come down.

The only manned space-flight problem that astronauts did not have a hand in dealing with was the failure of the Atlas-Agena 6 last Oct. 25.

That Agena target ship blew up before orbiting and astronauts Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford climbed out of their Gemini capsule before launch time.

The first American in orbit, John H. Glenn Jr., then a Marine lieutenant colonel, had to take partial manual control of his Friendship 7 on Feb. 20, 1962, when a small jet thruster failed.

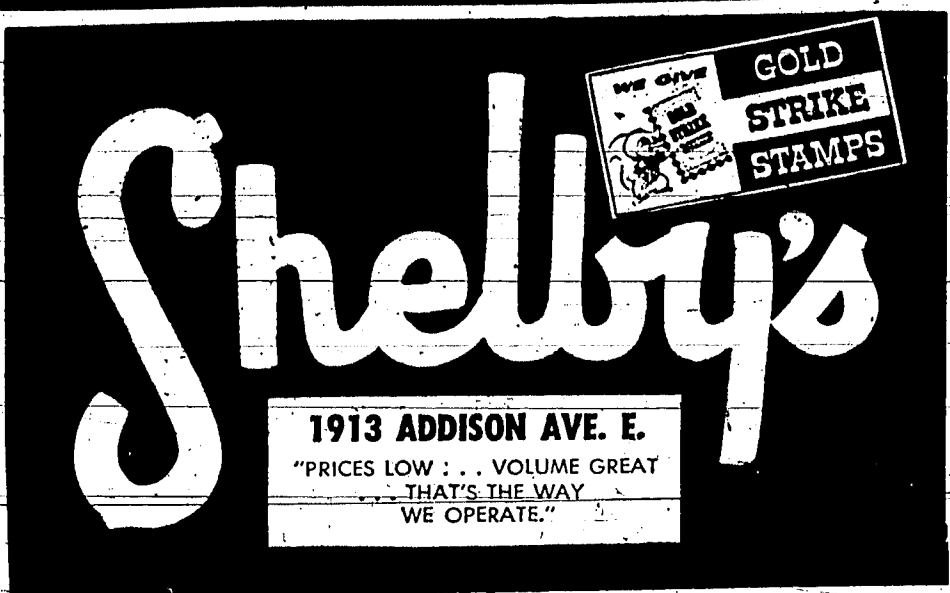

Problems in space do not automatically mean a reverse for the space program.

During Cooper's first space mission—the Faithful flight of May 15-16, 1963—drinking water leaked into the cabin and ground stations feared that the automatic re-entry system might have been short circuited. They directed Cooper to fly the capsule manually back to earth and he became the first space-man to do so.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II had to do without malfunctioning computers as they brought Gemini 4 down last June. They followed instructions from the ground and landed safely.

Second Watts Riot Shows Improvements Not Adequate

By DAVE SMITH
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "If the city's teeming, sprawling Negro district. Improvements efforts were launched, but apparently not enough, and apparently not soon enough. Racial violence boiled up again Tuesday as more than 600 Negroes rioted in Watts, cradle of the last August's incredible devastation, leaving two dead and at least two dozen injured. If last summer's "curtain-raiser" still overshadowed its second act, and if Tuesday's violence was, as police felt and hoped, short-lived and quickly quelled, it quelled something else as well: the hope that things were better now. Long before last August, civil rights leaders had predicted a racial explosion in the 50-square-mile southeast Los Angeles area they call "the black ghetto." Of Los Angeles' 2,479,015 population, 334,916 are Negroes and most live on the southeast side, surrounding and filling Watts to a density 98 per cent Negro. Within that giant ghetto is: Overcrowding: 27.3 persons per acre, compared to a county average of 7.4. Unemployment: 1,000 Negroes arriving each month, landing in Watts, looking for jobs, failing to find them, staying on and sinking lower on the economic scale. Civic blight: Buildings dating from past decades, left to moulder as cheap rentals beginning with World War II when wartime industry attracted a Negro population boom in job-seekers from the South. Distrust of police: Negroes have long accused Los Angeles police Chief William H. Parker of antipathy to the cause of civil rights. Parker has denied this, but it has not stilled Negro leaders' accusations of physical and emotional brutality on the part of police. Embitterment: Southern Negroes, arriving in Watts with bitter memories, expecting a land of milk and honey and seeing it, but realizing the milk and honey are not for them. Social workers point out, that though they may be better off here than they were before, their embitterment deepens in direct proportion as the reality falls short of their dreams — dreams they see being lived by white people in the nicer districts. Last December, a commission appointed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown and headed by John McGovern, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, reported that the August riot was rooted in growing tension and "the dull, devastating spiral of failure." The commission recommended urgent steps to increase employment, improve education and improve police relations with citizens of the aggrieved area. In the three months since, federal, state, county and city agencies began hasty work.

BOISE (AP) — Protection against mining on 322 acres in Clearwater and Coeur d'Alene National Forests to permit recreational development has been requested by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Orval G. Hadley, land office manager at Boise, said Wednesday the application received by the Bureau of Land Management would withdraw for public recreation use of three completed campgrounds located on the Clearwater Forest.

On the Coeur d'Alene National Forest, he said, a new campground is proposed at Tom Ivin Creek on the north fork of the Coeur d'Alene River. At Pumblebea campground an additional 16 family camping units are planned.

The assessor also suggested that Idahoans should consider a one-house legislature.

"We could reduce the cost of operating our government materially," he said.

The counties Leonardson mentioned were Franklin, Custer, Clark, Camas, Butte, Benewah and Boise counties.

American Toll Given in War Action

SAIGON (AP) — One hundred Americans were reported killed and 803 wounded in action in Viet Nam during the week of March 6-12. A U.S. military spokesman announced tonight.

Eight were listed as missing in action.

There was an increase in all categories from the previous week. American losses from Feb. 27 to March 5 were listed as 61 killed, 177 wounded and one missing.

The spokesman said that, under a new system of units reporting direct to Washington, some of the newly listed casualties may have resulted from action before March 6.

He said there was no way of telling here. He noted, however, that the wounded total appeared to be unduly high, and he could not recall any battle last week that would have sent the figure soaring.

Burley Sets Voter League Fund Drive

BURLEY — Fourth annual fund drive for the Burley League of Women Voters began Thursday, announces Mrs. George H. Quarterman Jr., president.

The League has mailed 125 letters to individuals and firms explaining the League's aims and activities. A non-partisan, non-profit, volunteer group, the League's purpose is to promote and inform participation of citizenship in government. Dues are kept low so that any woman of voting age who is a citizen of the United States and who believes in the League's purpose may join.

Headquarters for the fund drive will be at the Mullikin Music Store, with Mrs. Clifford Mullikin and Mrs. Farrell Williams as co-chairmen for the drive.

The two chief areas of activity are program and voters' service. Program topics are suggested, adopted, and researched by the League members on local, state and national levels. Once positions are reached on the items studied, the League can then support appropriate legislation which affects those issues.

The League holds public meetings in an effort to provide information and stimulate thinking on topics. A coffee hour was held with the Cassia County legislators during the last biennial session so that citizens might discuss pending legislation.

During the past year Lloyd Howe, economic analyst, Idaho Department of Development and Commerce, discussed planning and zoning. Mrs. Eugene Smith, state president of the League of Women Voters of Idaho, and the only woman member of Idaho's Constitutional Revision Commission, spoke on the activities of the commission.

Ernest Blauer, manager of Amalgamated Sugar Co., and Robert Hilliard, agricultural representative for Idaho Bank and Trust, discussed the implications of the nation's foreign economic policy on the local level.

Voters service activities included getting voters to register and vote, also to inform them about candidates and issues. Best known of the League's activities is the candidates meeting, where citizens may meet the candidates for public office and hear them speak.

Posters, voters' information sheets, radio announcements, and telephone calls are all part of the League's program to stimulate citizens at election time. Mrs. Quarterman explained.

Committee on Handicapped Has Meeting

The Twin Falls Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped met at noon Tuesday with the Board of Directors of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce in the Desert Room of the Rogerson Hotel.

E. E. Jellison, chairman of the committee, explained to the chamber directors that the problems involved in employment of handicapped workers are ever-expanding.

He pointed out that if the present trend in numbers of handicapped people seeking work continues, by the end of the century there will be more than 10,000,000 physically and mentally disabled people seeking employment. Jellison went on to state that only through total community support can this problem be overcome.

William McHugh, vocational guidance counselor for the Department of Employment, indicated that at present, there are more than 70 handicapped people seeking work in the Twin Falls area alone.

McHugh commented, "Many handicapped individuals have been assisted in enhancing their employability through training at the local business college and College of Southern Idaho, but will need further assistance in security of employment following completion of training."

Following the noon luncheon, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and Twin Falls Committee on Employment of the Handicapped toured the Idaho Frozen Foods Plant in Twin Falls.

Miss Van Orman Is Recipient Of State Award

JEROME—Margaret Van Orman, Jerome High School, has been named 1966 state Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Idaho and will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills. Miss Van Orman, who resides at 220 S. Buchanan, Jerome, ranked first among 3,502 senior girls in 101 of the state's high schools.

Ranking second in the state is Karen Sue Masteller, Wallace High School, Wallace, who will receive a $500 scholarship.

Honorable mention winners include Linda Ann Truesdell, Valdivia High School, Caldwell; Margaret Ilene Downs, Mountain Home High School, Mountain Home, and Barbara Kay Roberts, Nampa High School, Nampa.

Achievement in the 12th annual Betty Crocker knowledge and attitude test, prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Chicago, determined the awards. A total of 570,824 senior class girls in 14,714 of the nation's high schools were enrolled for the examination.

As Idaho State Homemaker of Tomorrow for 1966, Miss Van Orman, along with homemakers from the other 49 states and the District of Columbia, becomes eligible for honors as All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. Determining factors in this choice are the girls' scores in the original test plus personal observation and interviews during an expense paid tour of Colonial Williamsburg and Washington, D.C., for state Homemakers of Tomorrow, each accompanied by a faculty adviser.

Climax of the tour will be the American Table Dinner at which the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced. Her scholarship will be raised to $5,000, with scholarships for the second, third and fourth place winners being increased to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, respectively. The school of each state winner will receive a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica from Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.

United States senators from each girl's state and representatives from the home district of each will be among the guests at the dinner and also at a reception earlier, at which the girls will act as hostesses.

Miss Van Orman has been a member of the National Honor Society for three years, on the student council and the staff of the school yearbook, a member of the Pep Club, Literature Club and the International Relations Club and has participated in dramatics. She is particularly interested in music, having studied piano for 12 years and recently started taking voice lessons. She has accompanied the school choir, plays the organ in church and sings in a girls' quartet that entertains a school and civic affairs.

In addition, she has found time to earn money toward her college course by babysitting, playing the piano for various civic clubs, clerking in a store and writing a weekly column on school affairs for the local newspaper.

Miss Van Orman thinks that a homemaker's most important ability is "to make her home a home by creating an atmosphere of love, understanding and family unity. Such a home would provide an ideal place for spiritual, intellectual and cultural growth." She likes to plan and prepare meals, especially trying new recipes for American and foreign dishes.

She will use her scholarship at either the University of Utah or the University of Idaho, with a major in applied music and a minor in English and education.

Karen Masteller, Idaho's second place winner, has been on the honor roll throughout her high school course. She is vice president of her chapter of the Future Homemakers of America.

Honor Society and vice president of the Girls' Athletic Association. She also has a regular job after school and on Saturdays as a clerk and bookkeeper.

She plans to major in primary education at the University of Idaho.

Since the Betty Crocker search started 12 years ago, more than four million girls have enrolled, and scholarships in excess of the million and a quarter dollar mark have been awarded. The program is the only one of its scope exclusively for high school girls.

Lenten Guideposts Time For Silence

By LORNE GREENE
Star of TV

Dad was a huge man. He wasn't unusually tall, but he was tremendously broad across the chest and shoulders. And like so many big men, he was exceptionally gentle.

He had one special quality which I come to think of as the essence of his fatherhood. It is such a simple thing, on the surface. He knew that there is a time for silence.

Lorne Greene

When I was 15 it happened that Mother went to New York for two weeks to visit her sister, leaving Dad and me alone in the house.

The more I thought about that house, standing empty and peaceful all through the day while Dad was at the shoeshop, the more delightfully it contrasted with the restraints of school.

I took out a sheet of Mother's note paper, experimented with her signature until I was satisfied, then signed an illness excuse and began to enjoy a few days of leisure.

One morning I picked up my pile of books as usual, and left the house. Dad always left for his shop at 8:30 a.m., but was taking no chances. I waited until 9 a.m. before going home. I let my cleverness, and slammed the front door behind me.

"What's there?" Dad's deep voice boomed through the hall. He stepped out of the bathroom, a towel around his shoulders, and my cleverness deserted me.

"I - uh - came back for an umbrella."

Both of us instinctively glanced out the window. There was not a cloud in the sky.

In the immense silence proceeding from my father I went through the wretched pantomime of taking an umbrella from the closet. I was half-way out the door when he spoke.

"Aren't you forgetting your rubbers?"

"Great Treat"

"Lorne," Dad said, "let's have lunch together today."

Ordinarily this was a great treat. I tried to sound heartily as I accepted.

I knew what that lunch date was for: it was a chance for me to tell him anything that might be on my mind. But somehow when I got there the words stuck in my throat.

Dad maintained that powerful silence of his which said so much more than words. After the meal, he said simply, "I'll walk you back to school."

In the principal's office, of course, it all came out. That principal bawled me out for half an hour, but five minutes after we left his office I couldn't have told you one thing he said.

All the while Dad simply sat looking at me. And when we cannot tell you a thing, the one man said the well-timed silence of the other has haunted me ever since.

Decision on Future

During my first semester at college I faced a decision about the future. I was enrolled in the chemical engineering course at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, about 100 miles from home.

I'd been intrigued by chemistry for years, but I had another love, too. I wanted to be an actor. Not professionally, perhaps, but as a hobby.

But I made a jolting discovery: being a scientist was going to take all of my time! There were lectures in the morning, labs all afternoon, and written assignments for the evening. Only people in non-lab courses had time to act in plays.

Suddenly I wanted very much to be talking this all over with Dad. I put through a phone call. "Coincidence"

"Isn't this a coincidence!" Dad's voice interrupted me. "I'll be passing right through Kingston tomorrow on my way to Toronto. Why don't I stop by the school and you can tell me more?"

Today, of course, I know he didn't have to go to Toronto any.

more than he had to go to the moon. He closed his shop and made that 100-mile trip because there was a boy with something on his mind who needed a good listener.

At the time I only knew that we sat all that September afternoon on the shore of Lake Ontario while I poured out my thoughts, my hopes, my dreams for the future, and that by the time I had finished I had chosen a lifetime in the theater.

What he thought about my plans, of becoming an actor, I never knew.

Got Time

I was talking with a friend not long ago about Dad's gift of creative silence. My friend, Joe Reisman, is a song writer, and suddenly he picked up a piece of paper and started jotting down some of the things I'd said. Here's what he wrote:

"You can talk to the man."

"He's got time. He'll understand."

"He's got shoulders big enough to cry on."

"Tell all your troubles; and take your time."

"He's in no hurry. He doesn't mind."

"It matters not how bad you've been."

"You can talk to the man."

Now I'd been talking about Dad. But by the time Joe had set the words to music and we'd made a record of them, the word "Man" had become capitalized, and the record was about God the Father of us all.

But that's a natural progression, when you come to think about it. Doesn't what we know of the Father in heaven start with a father here on earth?

We believe in His love because we've known human love. We believe that He listens to our prayers because another father has listened to our words.

Residence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House has delayed for a week consideration of legislation authorizing construction of an official residence for the vice president.

The action came Wednesday amidst a blast from a Republican leader.

House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said he believed the vice president ultimately should have an official residence but added: "There is a time to build and a time to mark time on a project of this kind."

The legislation calls for an appropriation of $750,000.

Last Honor Paid

Chapel organ selections were played.

Palbearers were Raymond Wickie, Clyde Goodman, Curtis Mahoney, Larry Mahoney, Perry Wheland and Art Schieve.

Military rites were held in the Albion Cemetery directed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Robert Kanauck was the commander.

TEN-TON BOTTLE WASHING machine is just one of the several large pieces of machinery which had to be moved by the 7-Up Bottling Co. in Twin Falls Wednesday. The firm has moved from its old plant at 146 Second Ave. S. to a new facility at 126 Locust St. S. A large crane was required to move the bulky machine out of the building and load it onto a trailer. The new plant is expected to go into operation next week. (Times-News photo)

Bottling Firm Is Moving to New Quarters

The 7-Up Bottling Co. of Twin Falls is in the process of moving to its new plant at 126 Locust St. S., according to Roy Birrell, co-owner and manager of the firm.

The new plant was built because the firm needed room for expansion and the 6,250-square foot plant at 146 Second Ave. S. did not fulfill this need. The new plant has 12,000 square feet of floor space, and a storage warehouse adjacent to the building provides an extra 25,000 square feet.

The building and moving cost about $120,000 and involved hiring a crane to hoist some of the larger equipment onto trailers for moving, Birrell added. The moving process began last week and was to be completed within a week.

Several new features have been added to the new plant's equipment, including the latest automatic water treatment equipment available, and several new fork-lift trucks. The building has been called, by some, the most modern of its kind in the state. "All to better serve the residents of the Magic Valley," Birrell added.

Grandfather

ENCINO, Calif. (AP)—Actor John Wayne has become a grandfather for the 11th time.

His daughter, Toni, gave birth to a 6-pound, 11-ounce son Wednesday. He was named Peter.

Ridiculed

CLINTON, Conn. (AP)—Thirty homeowners have petitioned to change the name of their street, claiming its present name subjects them, their children and the town to ridicule.

It is called High Taxes Road.

The residents say the name always raises eyebrows, and that it affects property values.

First Selectman George Kinsley said the street got that name because the developer "was annoyed with the town for not sharing the cost of putting it in with him."

Local Woman Is On Nurses' Board

BOISE (AP)—Appointment of two new members of the State Board of Nurse Registration and Nursing Education was announced Wednesday by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

Named to the board for terms ending April 1, 1969, were Mrs. Marilyn D. Blackburn of Twin Falls and Mrs. Edna Dyer of Pocatello. Mrs. Billie L. Fry of Pocatello was appointed a member of the Practical Nurses Advisory Council.

What Bourbon king built a castle in Kentucky?

The Bourbon king was Colonel E. H. Taylor, Jr., a leading whiskey distiller in the late 1800's.

Col. Taylor had been searching for a special kind of water to make Bourbon with: limestone spring water. Water with a clean, tantalizing flavor it gets as it bubbles up through limestone groundrock.

In 1887, he found his spring near Frankfort, Kentucky. The water here gushed up so pure, so plentiful the Colonel knew he would never want to make Bourbon anywhere else.

So, next to this spring, he built a distillery. Built it to last in the form of a castle made of the very limestone that was to give his water its intriguing flavor.

Today, the castle still stands. The spring still flows. And Old Taylor still is coming out of Kentucky as incredibly smooth-tasting as ever.

Everything's old fashioned about Old Taylor—except the people who drink it.

Favored BYU Has Date With Three Spoilers

NEW YORK (AP) — Picking a winner at this stage of the National Invitational Basketball Tournament would be as risky as a game of Russian roulette. One could stick with the top seed, Brigham Young, but the other three semifinalists will be playing in Madison Square Garden Thursday because they topped previous favorites. Villanova, the last team invited to the tournament, will meet the next-to-last invitee, New York University. Brigham Young is pitted against an Army team that's winning without its 6-foot-6 center Mike Sillman, who underwent knee surgery last month.

Pitchers Can Sign Pacts Or Retire

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — What can Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati's Jim Maloney do if contract negotiations remain at their current impasse?

Quit. They can go to work in another industry or they can retire, but they cannot in any way get another job in what is termed organized baseball — the major leagues, the minor leagues or any other parties to their various rules and agreements.

Koufax and Drysdale, as well as Maloney, and other holdouts as Juan Marichal of San Francisco, are bound to the clubs they played for last year by baseball contract, which contains the unique, much-discussed and highly controversial reserve clause.

Under the reserve clause, each player becomes the property of the team he signs with.

Let the player go, the player must sign with that club in order to play organized baseball. He has no other recourse.

At one point in the Milwaukee trial the state entered into the record testimony taken from former baseball commissioner Ford Frick, who described the reserve clause as giving each club "each year... the right of reserve for next year" on a player's services.

Asked what a player could do if he wanted to play elsewhere, Frick answered:

"The player can, of course, quit organized baseball."

Twins, L.A. Still Looking For Victory

By The Associated Press
The Minnesota Twins and Los Angeles Dodgers, 1965 pennant winners, still were without an exhibition victory this year after Wednesday's major league baseball action.

The Twins were beaten for the seventh time, losing 2-1 to the New York Mets in 10 innings. The Dodgers dropped their fourth in a row, 9-0 to the New York Yankees.

The San Francisco Giants trounced the California Angels 7-3 and are the only undefeated big league team at 5-0.

Pittsburgh, which had won five without a loss, dropped a 12-5 decision to the Kansas City Athletics.

Eddie Bressoud's single, scoring Chuck Hiller, produced the Mets' victory. Johnny Lewis' homer accounted for the other New York run. Tony Oliva, the American League batting king, drove home Minnesota's only run with a seventh inning single.

Clete Boyer was the Yanks' big gun against the Dodgers, slamming two singles and a double. Whitey Ford, Bill Stafford and Steve Hamilton combined to limit the Dodgers to five singles.

Hal Lanier drove in three runs with a homer and a pair of singles for the Giants, who had to overcome an early 3-1 California lead.

Kansas City rocked Pittsburgh veteran Vern Law for eight runs in the first three innings in recording its fourth straight triumph. Ken Harrelson cracked a two-run homer for the A's.

Rookies made major contributions in three other games. First baseman George Kerner hit a three-run homer in leading St. Louis to a 4-2 victory over Detroit. Catcher Glen Clark had three runs batted in as Atlanta's 5-3 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

NCAA Finalists Set Championship Tilts

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — They're all going to show up for the NCAA basketball championship — all four semifinalists. They'll even play.

But that's about all the various coaches were promising Wednesday as they ticked off long, momentous and impressive injury lists for the national semifinals.

Only Texas Western's healthy going into its Friday night date with Utah. The Redskins have some major problems, as do Duke and Kentucky, the other two semifinalists.

The winners play Saturday night for the title, won the last two years by UCA. That game is scheduled for television coverage by Sports Network, Inc.

Here's the status at the moment, as the teams prepare for the trip to the University of Maryland campus:

Texas Western — no problems. Utah — George Fisher, the team's best rebounder, broke a leg in a late season game and is out. Sophomore Lyndon Mack, a 6-6 starting forward and one of the team's most consistent players, twisted his left knee in the Western Regional and is doubtful.

Kentucky — Starting forward Larry Conley was bedded with the flu Tuesday night and 10 others, including all starters, are complaining of colds and chest pains. All are expected to be ready.

Duke — Top scorer Bob Verga suffering from a touch of tonsillitis but is expected to be ready.

The Utes, with a 23-6 record, are the only unranked team in the round of four. Texas Western is No. 3 with a 26-1 record, while the first semi matches the two top ranked teams in the nation, No. 2 Duke at 25-3 and No. 1 Kentucky at 26-1.

Kentucky, although troubled by illness, remains the favorite and its semifinal clash with Villanova is expected to be the key game.

Scoring Soars as Favorites Romp In Rupert AAU Tourney

RUPERT — The co-favorites in the Northern Intermountain AAU basketball tournament put on a couple of scoring displays Wednesday night as they moved toward a championship meeting Saturday night. John Electric, Nampa, featuring College of Idaho star Taft Jackson, belted Pizza Haven, Rupert, 102-39 to tie the previous high scored in the tournament. The team that had the record, Pocatello Electrical Contractors, went back after the record and got it quite easily. The Contractors, paced by ISU starter Ken Briggs, polished off Fenton Sporting Goods, Burley, 131-64. In the third game of the night, Goode Motor, Rupert, bombed Quality Cars 85-43.

Action will continue in the single elimination tournament Thursday night when Valley Nursing Home, Twin Falls, takes on Don's Quality Meats, Rupert, at 7 p.m. Mountain Home Air Base Plumbers will meet O.W.'s Cafe, Rupert, at 8:15 and Johnson Electric draws Goode Motor in the nightcap.

Jackson, three times at least an honorable mention on the small college All-America teams while at College of Idaho, poured through 29 points while Jim Poteet added 26 to pace Johnson's Electric's easy victory. Myron Finkbeiner showed great ball handling and floor poise in a valuable role although he scored only three points.

Briggs canned 31 points and Pocatello put six other men into double scoring figures in wiping out Fenton's 131-64. The Contractors piled up 68 points in the first half and bumped it to 99 points at the end of three quarters. The tournament uses eight-minute quarters.

Goode Motor, although it didn't break 100, had it easy against Quality Cars. Goode jumped in front 14-5 in the first quarter and by halftime was coasting on a 40-19 cushion.

The tournament will conclude at Minico high school with two games each Friday and Saturday.
